and/or hardware at their discretion, to make the printer work with the items I've downloaded. My home printer, a DeskJet 1222 by HP is capable of printing barcode, but I would like to get another one to put it in my kitchen cabinet to print the grocery list. Can you suggest a printer, I will be using a PC equipped with XP and I will use the Brother HL 1210 (without the second ink cartridge). If the machine works, then it will print out a zig zag pattern on the paper, if the machine is broken, it will give you a large error message. The "HL 1210" makes me think you mean the HP LaserJet 1210, that's the model you linked. It looks like you got the HL 1210 with the 12 ink cartridges. I hope you're talking about the 1210 because it will print fine, it just doesn't have any zig zag pattern. Depending on how much ink you use, your ink tanks are not going to last as long as the machines. You should see if you can get a cheaper ink tank. It might be a good idea to get a 2nd ink tank just in case the main tank goes bad. If the printer/ink tank doesn't work, I would think the most probable reason it is not working would be the brother HL 1210 (without the second ink cartridge), and that is because it looks like it has some issues with the driver. I would say to you just download the driver and install it, and then you should be able to print out the image you want. If that doesn't work, then it's probably a hardware issue with the printer or ink tank. I don't think the Brother HL 1210 works with the printing software you have. There are a few errors about the printing software in the "Brother HL 1210 ink tank" thread, so I'm guessing the printer wouldn't work either. The HP DeskJet 1222 is a fine printer, but I don't see any support in the forums for it, so I don't know if it will work. The HP HP LaserJet 1210 is your best bet. It's an older model, so it has some issues, but there is support for it on this forum. If you download the HP firmware, then you should be able to print. 82157476af
